

2026 GLOBAL eDNA CONFERENCE

Advancing eDNA: Integrating Science, Practice, and People

October 28-30, 2026 | Seattle, Washington, USA

Hosted in partnership with the MTS eDNA Committee and the University of Washington's eDNA Collaborative, the conference will convene a global community of eDNA enthusiasts from across economic sectors to build connections, learn from one another, and further advance eDNA science.

ABOUT

The global conference will feature three days of concurrent sessions, focusing on a diverse array of eDNA-related topics (e.g., conservation applications, quantitative analysis, community engagement, policy-relevant communication, technological development, and many others), as well as a set of plenary speakers, a call for abstracts, a poster session (dependent on interest), and unstructured time for networking. Registration includes refreshments, breakfast, and lunch on all three days.
